

Weekly Dose Implied or No Print Page Numbers

Implied Page Numbers

In braille, the print page number is inserted whether it appears in print.

- An image may cover the area where the page number normally appears, and the page number is not shown. The page number is implied.
- Page numbers do not always appear on the first pages in the front matter.

Some books have no page numbers or there are sections of text without numbers.

- Insert a row of unspaced dots 36 across the width of the line to indicate print page changes.
- Continue braille page numbering on these pages.
- If the page change indicator would fall on line 25, move it to the next braille page.
- The page change indicator can be placed on line 1 if no running head is used.
- If the page change indicator would fall at the top of a braille page, and a running head is used, place the page change indicator on line 2. No blank line is required between the running head and the page change indicator.

For example, a section of photographs with captions but without page numbers may be inserted between two consecutive page numbers. Also, sections at the end of the book also may be unnumbered.
