Library-Iowa Department for the Blind
Denise Bean
denise.bean@blind.state.ia.us

Weekly Dose
Matching for Wide Columns

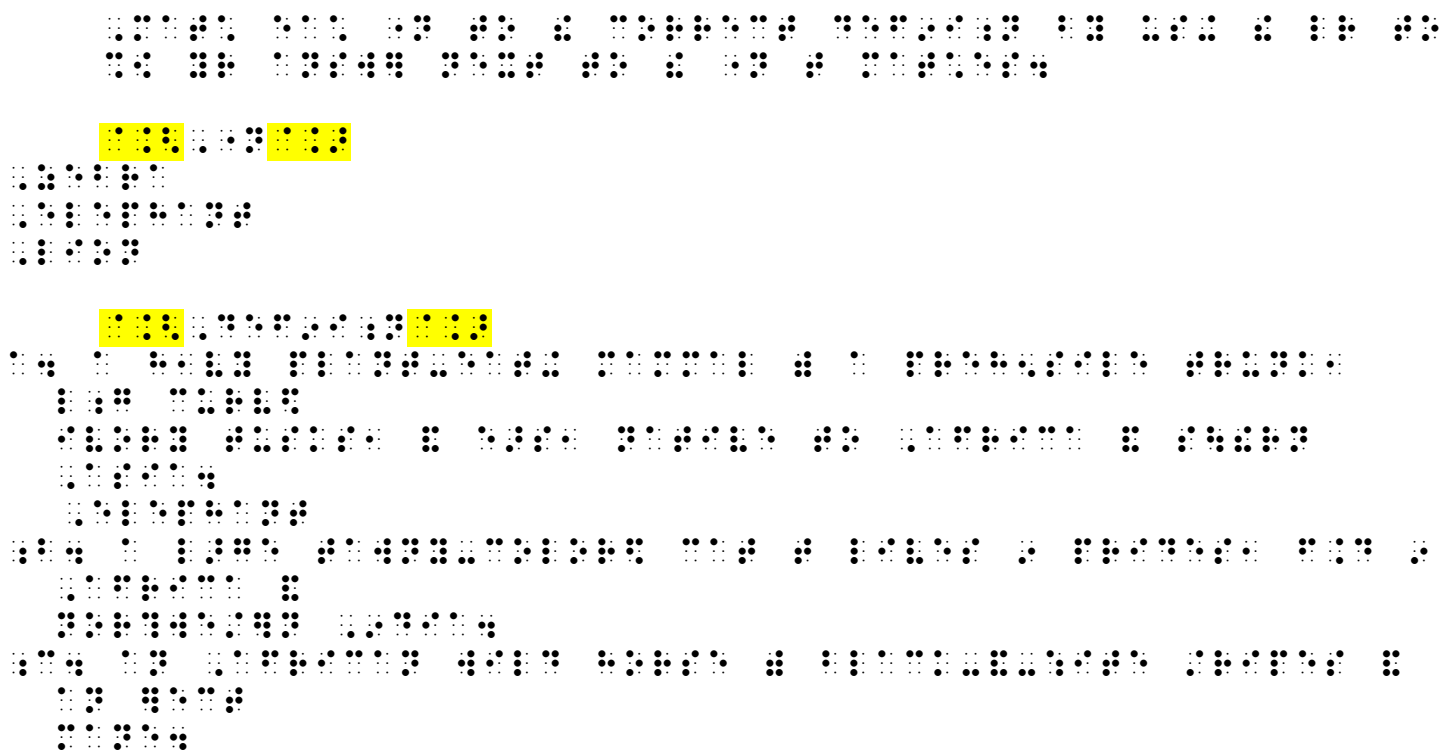
- If the columns are too wide to fit side by side across the width of the page, change the columns to list format with each list beginning in cell 1.
- Treat column headings that precede each list as cell-5 headings. When there are no print headings, insert a heading, enclosed in transcriber's note indicators, using terms suggested in the directions.
- Place all columns on the same braille page whenever possible.
- Do not divide a list between braille pages.

EXAMPLE

Match each name to the correct definition by using the letter to show your answer next to the name that matches.

Zebra	a. a heavy plant-eating mammal with a prehensile trunk, long curved ivory tusks, and ears, native to Africa and southern Asia.
Elephant	b. a large tawny-colored cat that lives in prides, found in Africa and northwestern India.
Lion	c. an African wild horse with black-and-white stripes and an erect mane.

Teaching point: In the example on the next page, transcriber notes are used around the cell-5 headings. This is done because you are adding in your own notes that are not shown in print.



Source: Section 10 Unified English Braille Formats