The figure consists of two rows of ten small plots each. Each plot is a square with a white background and black dots representing spatial data points. The patterns vary significantly, showing different types of spatial clustering, regularity, and distribution. Some plots show a single cluster of dots, while others show a more uniform, grid-like arrangement. The plots are arranged in a 2x10 grid, with the top row containing 10 plots and the bottom row containing 10 plots.
