

Weekly Dose Sidebar Material

"Working with sidebars in print material always feels difficult in deciding how it is to be formatted in braille especially when numbers are on the far right of the page. Can you suggest where to look for answers?" John from Northern Iowa

Happy to help, your answer will be found in the Braille Formats: Section 15 Line-Numbered and Line-Lettered Text.

RULE

- A transcriber's note can extend to the right margin when placed before the beginning of, or following the end of, the line-numbered text.
- Do not repeat the line number when a print line is longer than one braille line.
- Resume using the full width of the line after the completion of the line-numbered text.
- A transcriber's note can extend to the right margin when placed before the beginning of, or following the end of, the line-numbered text.

Boxed Material with Sidebars
